Frishman pushes Poore for answers

By Lisa
Boudreau

Michael Frishman and others want to know if Susan Poore really does live in Andover. Both Mr. Frishman and Ms. Poore are on the School Committee. They are two of the four candidates running for two seats on the board in the March 25 town elections.

Mr. Frishman is expected to ask Ms. Poore this question, along with others, tonight at the candidates' forum to be held at 7:30 in Memorial Hall Library.

Ms. Poore calls the accusations 'personal attacks' and says, 'This type of campaigning is unprecedented.'

Town elections are Monday, March 25.

"I am regularly asked by community members how to get in touch with Susan," Mr. Frishman said. "I know she doesn't have a published telephone number and I'm hesitant to tell them to reach her at her workplace."

If time allows, Mr. Frishman said he will also press Ms. Poore Thursday for answers about her residency, why she declines to vote approval of School Commit-

Town could lose $571k

By Don Staruk

Andover could lose $571,145 in state aid for fiscal 1992, according to figures released by the Weld administration last week.

The net loss in state aid would be in addition to anticipated cuts and could mean another half million dollars will have to be cut from the town manager's $54 million budget submitted for approval at the April 1 Town Meeting.

Answers split on overriding Prop. 2 1/2 for potholes

Eight readers responded to last week's Reader Survey: Do you favor the one-time $300,000 override of Prop. 2 1/2 to pay for potholes? Four said yes, four said no.

"The private sector has taken all the hits on taxes," said one person who voted no.

"Middle America is suffering enough right now."

But Peter G. McCarthy, 69 Andover St., said, "We must start somewhere. Parts of Andover Street, Blood Road, Red Spring Road, are a disgrace and a hazard. It would break a snake's back if he had to negotiate North Main Street by the Shawsheen Plaza. The Ho Chi Minh Trail never had that many holes in it."

Others who said they will override include Barbara Roberts, of 160 Lowell St., who said, "I am in favor of maintaining systems we have in place, whether it be roads, buildings or education," and Mrs. Charles J. Sheehan, of 4 Crestwood Drive, who called overriding for potholes "common sense." Harry Bedell of 123 Chestnut St. said, "decent roads save on car repairs."

Five want to be selectman

Five candidates are seeking two three-year seats on the Board of Selectmen in the March 25 town election.

Incumbent James Barenboim is running for re-election. Gail Ralston decided not to run again.

The candidates' profiles were compiled by reporter Don Staruk from questionnaires completed by the candidates, their responses to weekly questions asked by the Townsmen over the last

Hughes Pharmacy closes

By Don Staruk

Hughes Pharmacy, a downtown institution for 143 years, closed last Thursday, March 7.

The store sold out to CVS. Inventory was taken last Friday, and much of the stock had been moved to the CVS on Main Street or into storage by the middle of this week.

The store's closing comes on the heels of the death Jan. 9 of Alan L. Hughes, who owned the pharmacy.

Rosemary Hughes, who ran the pharmacy with her husband since they bought it in 1967, spent much of Thursday in the store accepting good wishes from longtime customers, most of whom, she said, have become friends.

"The customers have been so nice. None of them have been negative. They've been coming in all day long," Mrs. Hughes said.

Fricka Leistikow, of 37 Maple Ave., has been a Hughes customer since she moved to Andover in 1983. Stopping by Thursday, she said she will miss the store and its owners and wished Mrs. Hughes well.

Ms. Leistikow called the family "the most decent, intelligent and kindly people that you don't find so often in these kinds of places."

Ms. Leistikow said it was sad to see yet another small business close in downtown Andover.

Bunny Millikin, of 109 Holt Road, brought flowers for Mrs. Hughes and said she was also sad to see the pharmacy closing, but wished Mrs. Hughes well in entering a new chapter of her life.

"I've enjoyed you for so many years. I can't believe I'm not going to have you for another 50 years," Ms. Millikin told Mrs. Hughes.

"They've looked after us very, very well," Ms. Millikin said later.

Many of her customers expressed similar feelings, Mrs. Hughes said.

"They're happy for me that I'm going on to the next phase of my life," she said.

"I'm glad nobody can come in tomorrow because I have a feeling there will be a lot of tears," Mrs. Hughes said.

Customers have made Mrs. Hughes promise to join them for a lunch, a dinner and one offer has been for a weekend in Vermont, she said.

"Most of my customers are like friends, they're special people," Mrs. Hughes said.

She said she will take the summer off and help her daughter, Heather, prepare for her wedding this fall.

"I love to garden so I'm going to really enjoy being able to do that," she said.

After that, who knows, Mrs. Hughes said.

Closing decision

Mrs. Hughes had hired a pharmacist so that she could keep the store open after her husband's death, but at a minimum of $20 an hour, operating in the black became difficult, she said.

Because of the drugs, the store couldn't be open without a pharmacist on duty.

Another blow was the foreclosure on the Barnard Building. Because of a clause in the contract, the last five years of the pharmacy's lease was nullified by the foreclosure and the new lease rate she was offered was higher at $20 a square foot, according to Mrs. Hughes.

A couple of different pharmacists were interested in buying the business, but didn't want to deal with the problems with the lease and the building, she said.

Mrs. Hughes sat down with some local business owners and lawyers to discuss her options, and to discuss an offer by CVS, which she said was a "good deal."

"They're very professional. They let the little independents go out with a lot of dignity," Mrs. Hughes said.

CVS sent a letter, approved of and signed by Mrs. Hughes, to all the prescription customers advising them that their prescriptions will now be available at the CVS just up Main Street. If customers prefer, CVS will transfer their prescriptions to whatever other pharmacy they choose.

Pharmacy history

Mrs. Hughes and her husband first thought their business was founded in 1836, but a newspaper article they found indicated the starting date was actually 1854.

The business was originally a jewelry store located on Central Street, which started selling elixirs. Later it moved to the west side of Main Street before taking up residence in its final location in the Barnard Building, according to Mrs. Hughes.

Her husband in recent years gave the Andover Historical Society some of the original prescription files and other items of historical value. Her children have taken the old apothecary bottles, scales, various mortar and pestle sets and most of the other antiques that decorated the store over the years.

Rosemary Hughes said goodbye last week to her pharmacy on Main Street, which her family ran 24 years. Citing rising expenses, Ms. Hughes sold her business to CVS, which is located just up the street.

Understanding
Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

PAIN, WITH A TWIST

A person does not necessarily have to play tennis to experience the painful condition known as "tennis elbow." Anyone who uses handtools on a daily basis may be susceptible to this painful inflammation on the outside of the elbow. It is at this location that the muscles which stabilize the wrist during many hand motions attach themselves to the bone of the upper arm. Excessive twisting motion in the wrist can cause tenderness at this point of attachment. In severe cases, ligament and nerve irritation can lead to pain throughout the forearm. Every effort should be made by tennis-elbow sufferers to resist actions which curl and twist their wrists. Once the pain and injury subside, the chiropractor may help the musculature and tendons to resist strain and inflammations.

When pain overtakes you and even the simplest movements have become difficult, it's time to seek the cause. Using drug and surgery-free methods, chiropractic aims to restore balance to your musculo-skeletal system, thereby restoring health and energy. Don't settle for less. We welcome new patients here at DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP. We're located at 15 Central Street. For more information or an appointment, please call 475-5042. Member, International Chiropractic Association.

P.S. Anyone who regularly engages in manual labor/activity may want to ask the chiropractor to evaluate his potential for related injury.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Here's a chance to talk with the Townsmen

Have something to say to the Townsmen? The paper will hold a focus group Thursday, April 11, at 7 p.m., at its offices, 89 North Main St. The public is invited.

This will be a chance for people to comment on the paper, its stories, photos, advertising - whatever is on the minds of the readers.

Townsmen staff hope that those attending will represent different ages and interests, including teen-agers, parents, senior citizens, town employees and those who work out of town.

"This is your newspaper," said Perry Catlin, editor of the paper, "and we value your opinion. We may not follow your suggestion exactly, but we have found suggestions from previous focus groups to be very helpful and we almost always make some chance following reader suggestions."

If you'd like to attend, please call the Townsmen at 475-1943.

Rep. Coon voted to repeal sales tax on business

In a late-night session last Thursday, the state Legislature voted to repeal the sales tax on business services. Rep. Gary M. Coon (R-Andover) was among those voting for the repeal.

"It was a tough fight. The Democrat leadership really wanted to keep the tax," Rep. Coon said. "I think people realized the tax would have hurt the economy. The job market is bad enough now without adding the extra burden of new taxes on struggling

The four School Committee candidates talk about board meeting styles

This is the final question the Townsmen will ask the four candidates running for the two available seats on the School Committee. Town elections are Monday, March 25.

QUESTION:

What is your opinion of how School Committee meetings are run? Do you have any suggestions for the meetings?

Mike Frishman believes the School Committee runs very well the way it is currently set up. But, he sees the newly established subcommittees as an improvement for moving School Committee business along more rapidly.

"The first step that has already been taken, that will make some improvements, is the introduction of subcommittees," he said.

"They (the two School Committee members named to each subcommittee) will spend entire evenings discussing single issues and will be able to bring more precise information back to the committee for focused discussions," he said.

It is each committee member's responsibility to come to meetings as well prepared as possible, said Mr. Frishman.

"I always have notes written out before I go to meetings so I can raise questions I might have on the issues.

"I expect my colleagues to be as well prepared and not to be thinking on their feet," Mr. Frishman said.

Because the committee consists of five individuals with differing views that represent a diverse community, the committee can be expected to take some time discussing issues, he said.

Susan Poore believes the revised agenda format put together by Mark McQuillan, the new superintendent of schools, has helped meetings run more smoothly. Those changes include agenda items that are clearly marked issues for discussion and others marked for action, she said.

"It isn't a radical change, but I do think it's improved meetings.

"It's streamlined the meetings and tightened them so the committee is fully aware of what is for discussion and what is for action," she said.

Ms. Poore said the open and free flowing discussions the committee has is an important feature of the democratic process the committee follows, though it can be time consuming. She pointed out that the School Committee has met more than twice a week, "on average" during the past two years to discuss increasing concerns about decreasing state and local funds.

She also believes the new subcommittees will contribute to more efficient School Committee meetings.

Susan Jenkins believes the most recent School Committee meetings have not been run efficiently.

"Too many important decisions have been tabled and the School Committee members don't seem to give Dr. McQuillan's recommendations enough weight," she said.

Ms. Jenkins said she would like to see a time limit set for every issue that comes before the board and is designated an action item on a particular evening's agenda.

"There should be some degree of flexibility, of course, but the chairman should use his gavel more than he has recently," Ms. Jenkins said.

She also suggested that the committee set aside one meeting each month for discussion of educational and curriculum matters and another meeting for business items.

John Wragg said the nature of School Committee meetings are give-and-take sessions. He believes this is an effective procedure for making decisions.

"Recently there is perhaps more discussion than decision and perhaps more time should be spent on educational matters and future planing," he said.

He did recognize the current committee's effort to tackle the budget and the time it has taken to investigate cuts and their impact.

He thinks the committee would benefit from planing a yearly agenda, which would set aside a significant fraction of time to address educational matters, future planning and budget concerns.

Mr. Wragg also said if he's elected that he would not have problems working with any chairman that School Commit-

"Chairmen have different styles, but I can live with any style that's realistic," he said.

Answers split on overriding Prop. 2 1/2 to repair potholes way William Kress of 18 Tilton Lane sees it. He crossed out "no" and wrote in "absolutely not."

"First, there is no such thing as a one-time override," Mr. Tilton wrote. "The reason for requiring money beyond income are endless and will recur...If most of us have to become more efficient - do more with less - why not the government? Look at past sloppy maintenance, inefficient and dangerous traffic flows, poor and dangerous road markings (lines and signs) - this is an inefficient organization."

Another person who checked "no," said, "The money to fix potholes can be found in the budget. From watching budget cuts over the last few years, I have come to the conclusion that, contrary to common opinion, the town budget had more fat than the school budget. We haven't lost a policeman or fireman yet, but we have cut teachers."

That same person suggested that "the town and schools should work together to produce one override article for the needs of all."

Nancy Caverly of 11 Linda Road said she doesn't favor an override for the potholes. "Our town budget should include money for this expense," she wrote. "That is why we pay taxes to take care of necessary expenses. We have to cut our expenses to the bone and eliminate the fat so we can afford life's necessities. We don't need increased expenses. Let's hold the line."

Seminar on writing press releases is March 21

The Townsmen will hold a seminar on writing press releases Thursday, March 21, at 4 p.m. at the paper's offices, 89 North Main St.

The purpose of the seminar is to discuss what the paper needs in releases and for the public to tell the paper what it needs in terms of getting its information published.

The public is invited.

Please let the paper know if you are coming by calling 475-1943.

Library to close Sundays

Memorial Hall Library is scheduled to be closed Sundays if the town manager's budget goes into effect. Nancy Jacobson, director of the library, said she had to make that decision because she's losing staff with budget cuts.

Currently, the library is open Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. The staff now works weekends, but each staff member works alternate weekends. Ms. Jacobson said it would be unfair to ask the library staff to work every weekend, which would have to happen to keep the library open Sundays with a reduced staff.

She said it is unfair because her staff is the lowest paid in town and because employees are not paid at a better rate on weekends or on evenings.

Raytheon lays off nine

By Don Staruk

Raytheon Co. laid off nine employees from its Lowell Street manufacturing plant last week, but company spokesman Ed Powers said the plant will continue running three shifts.

"Nine people were laid off last Monday. The individuals had completed the assignments they were working on and there was not new work to shift them to," Mr. Powers said this week.

The nine employees were notified of the layoffs Monday, March 4.

The Lowell Street plant is part of Raytheon's missiles systems division, which produces the Patriot missile. The Patriot gained international fame in the recent Gulf war for its ability to knock down the Scud missiles used by Iraq against Saudi Arabia and Israel.

President George Bush visited the Lowell Street plant last month to thank its employees for their work on the Patriot.

There was a misconception that during the Gulf war Raytheon increased its work at the plant from two shifts to three, according to Mr. Powers. In fact, Raytheon was already running three shifts, but increased the size of the second and third shifts in response to the military's request to accelerate production of Patriot missiles, he said.

"We had been right along running three shifts," Mr. Powers said.

Mr. Powers did not say if any new orders have been received from the United States, or any other government, for Patriot missiles since the Gulf war.

"There was a contract that we received to upgrade some of the previous (Patriots) that we had produced," Mr. Powers said.

He would not speculate on whether the company would lay off any more employees.

"We're hopeful things will continue to go well," Mr. Powers said.

Chamber plans breakfast

The Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce will hold a membership meeting and breakfast Friday, March 15, from 7:25 to 8:55 a.m. at the Andover Marriott.

ticipants will hear about current programs. And from 8:35 to 8:55, Michael Markham of Small Business Development Center at the University of Lowell will speak about small business marketing in recessionary times.

If space for the breakfast is reserved, it costs $12.95. At the door it is $18.

Local businessman to speak in Waltham

Andover resident Stephen A. James, a vice president of Leggett McCall/Grubbs & Ellis of Boston and Waltham, will address the Waltham-Weston Chamber of Commerce Thursday, March 21, at 7:30 a.m. at the TLC Best Western, 477 Totten Pond Road, Waltham.

The program will feature an overview of the current real estate market.

Small group of elderly is split on overriding

By Lisa Boudreau

Each week Shirley Nixon, 28 Vine St., reads the newspapers and sees how many teachers could be laid off this year. She also travels the roads whose pot holes won't be filled if an override of Proposition 2 1/2 fails at the April 1 Town Meeting.

Still, Mrs. Nixon, a retired 68-year-old, won't vote for the override. She can't afford it.

"I live in a modest house, but yet my tax bill increased 16.7 percent," she said.

"People (who support both overrides) are hammering 'they can do this' but I can't afford that," Mrs. Nixon said.

She believes the elderly who live on fixed incomes are being asked to shoulder a larger portion of the tax burden in Andover than ever before.

"I'm retired and I live on a fixed income that really isn't fixed because the interest rate keeps decreasing and inflation keeps rising. Why should we (the elderly) be asked to subsidize the funds lost from declining values on $500,000 houses?" she asked.

Mrs. Nixon said as a widow she raised two children and sent them to Andover public schools where they got a good education. She said the extras that have been incorporated into the public schools since her children attended may have to be dropped to fund the basics.

"How can they (the school administrators) in a declining economy expect people to keep giving more? I personally cannot."

"What you can't afford you can't have," Mrs. Nixon said.

Donald and Janyce Sagaser, 56 Chestnut St., are also retired, but they'll vote for the Prop. 2 1/2 override, to fund the schools and pay for road repair.

Their six children all attended Andover public schools, four graduated from Andover high and two from graduated from Phillips Academy.

"I feel that's all the more reason to support the schools," said Mrs. Sagaser.

"I'd like to maintain the quality of the public schools my children attended," she said.

Mr. Sagaser said he's never agreed with how Prop. 2 1/2 worked.

"Proposition 2 1/2 is unreasonable. It doesn't give any recognition to the effects of inflation," said Mr. Sagaser.

Kenneth Buck, 8 Summer St., is "dead set against" and override for the schools. He said the new programs and other "extras" added to the school curriculum during the past 15 years should be cut before tax payers, especially elderly tax payers, are asked to reach deeper into their pockets.

Just like other people on a fixed income, a school can only spend as much money as it has coming in, said the retired, 65-year-old Mr. Buck.

"If you add new programs then others will have to go if you can't afford to keep them all. Lately all I see are the old ones with new ones that keep being added on," he said.

Mr. Buck said all of his 10 children attended Andover public schools and received good educations. If the current administration can't afford all the programs currently offered, then it should start charging fees for athletics and other "extras," he said.

Agnes Gallagher, 49 Essex St., is retired and she never had children in the Andover public schools, but she will vote for a Prop 2 1/2 override.

"It's important people support the schools," she said.

News that class sizes may get larger than 25 students each worry her.

"I got a good education in Andover and I'll pay the tax increase so others can too," she said.

News deadline at the Townsmen is Monday at 5 p.m.

Neighbor's call nabs car thieves

By Don Staruk

A resident's phone call about suspicious activity and attentive police work by Andover and Lawrence police officers last Tuesday night, March 5, netted two suspects from a stolen car chase that had ended with a crash on South Main Street the night before.

Just before midnight Monday, March 4, Andover officers joined Lawrence police in the pursuit of a stolen car that began in Lawrence, went through Andover and ended with the car crashing on Route 28 near Hidden Road. The two young suspects fled into the woods and escaped, despite the help of a search dog team from North Reading in looking for them.

Then, at about 10:15 p.m. Tuesday, a resident on Karlton Circle called police about suspicious activity of three people in a white Cadillac, two of whom had gotten out and gone into the woods behind a neighbor's house.

Police responding realized it was the same area from the previous night's chase and questioned the driver of the Cadillac, a mother who had dropped off her son and his friend to look for her son's jacket. The son told his mother he lost the jacket while walking in the woods the previous night, according to Andover Sgt. Brian Pattullo.

Police then questioned the boys and decided they were involved in the car theft. A Lawrence officer who took part in the chase Monday night was contacted, came to Andover and identified one of the boys, a 16-year-old juvenile, as a suspect.

Police were then able to obtain the name of the second suspect. Lawrence police were scheduled to go to court Wednesday to obtain warrants for both.

Andover patrolmen involved in the investigation Tuesday were patrolmen Daniel Igoe and Randall Peterson, and Sgt. Pattullo.

More thieves elude police

At about the same time police were investigating the white Cadillac on Karlton Circle last week, another stolen car was spotted on North Street in west Andover, according to Sgt. Pattullo.

Andover police working extra enforcement in the area began pursuit of a stolen Mustang and soon realized a white Camaro behind the Mustang was also fleeing and was also stolen.

The chase went out onto River Road and north on Interstate 93 before police broke off pursuit for the safety of the public and the officers, according to Sgt. Pattullo. The Mustang was later found abandoned in Methuen.

The recent deaths of two Braintree police officers during a pursuit has reminded officers to use caution, according to the sergeant.

The police log is on page 53 in today's Townsmen.

Students return with wedges of Big Apple

Andover High marketing students had a chance to put some of their marketing and retail skills to work when they took a trip to New York City to attend the largest gift show in the country during February vacation.

The 20 students boarded two vans at 5 a.m. one Tuesday morning to get to the Javits Convention Center in New York on time to see wholesalers, buyers and vendors in action.

The students were able to buy items directly from the display booths on the convention's final day since the manufacturers and wholesalers didn't want to carry all their inventory back with them, said JoAnn Sam-ra, marketing teacher and club co-adviser.

Leigh Catanzaro and Liz Pratt were both bought leather coats for just $100, one-third of their retail value, said Ms. Samra.

Bill Henderson and Corey Ouellette brought citizens band radios and radar detectors at excellent prices, she said. Not to be outdone, Caryn Stutz, Ed Thistle and Chris Cashman bought watches at wholesale prices.

The trip cost each student just $20, said Ms. Samra, and the rest of the expenses were covered by the profits made from Andover High's Yogurt Plus school store, which is run by marketing students.

School Committee candidates in forums

Andover voters will get to meet the four candidates for the two open School Committee seats before town elections March 25.

Michael Frishman, Sue Jenkins, Susan Poore and John Wragg will debate one another Thursday, March 14, in the third-floor Memorial Hall at Memorial Hall Library, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The debate, which will also include other candidates for town office, will be televised on cable Channel 11.

Each candidate will present a two-minute opening statement, then answer two questions prepared by the League of Women Vo-ers. The candidates will be able to question one another and respond to questions from the audience. Each will have one minute to make a closing statement.

The Parent-Teacher Organization for the Early Childhood Center at Shawshen will host the School Committee candidates Thursday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m.

The forum will be held at the Early Childhood Center's Shawshen School gymnasium. The public is invited. There will be an opportunity for questions and dialogue with the candidates.

YOUTH LINE

Dear Youth Line:

My friend likes this guy that I've been her messenger to. Now he's asked me out! What can I do?

Caught in the Middle

Dear Caught in the Middle:

Ask yourself if you really like this guy or what he means to you. Next, ask yourself if your friendship with your friend is worth hurting to go out with him. If your friendship is worth more, then tell the guy you like him as a friend and that's all.

Then, try to avoid getting put in the role of messenger again. It could make things uncomfortable for all of you.

Peer counselor

Dear Caught in the Middle:

What a difficult position to be in. If your friend still likes this guy, and this girl is really your friend, I'd decline the invitation, reminding him it's your friend who wants to go out with him.

Psychotherapist

Dear Caught in the Middle:

This question stirred up quite a discussion in the office where I work. Most adults here said they'd been in the same situation when they were teen-agers. And we had many opinions about what you should do.

I guess I'd try to put my friendship with your girlfriend first. You probably have known her longer. So go to her, tell her the truth about what's happened, and see how she feels. If she understands and feels OK about it, then fine, go out with him. But if she's hurt, I think I would forget him.

Students, adults or anyone else can ask questions of Youth Line by calling the Delphi Center at 475-8690 Mondays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Or you may phone the Townsman at 475-1943 with your question. The Delphi Center is also looking for student volunteers to answer questions.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

The arrangement of the baby's room is determined by the furniture and the space available. Outside circumstances limit you in some ways, but you should try to make the best area for the baby you can. This will cause the least disruption of your family routine. A calm, relatively quiet area should be chosen if the baby doesn't have a separate room. The room should be well ventilated and well lighted. The temperature should be between 67 and 70 degrees. Arranging the baby's room should not be a difficult problem. Consider your needs, your daily routine, and what is available for your use.

Are you looking for a baby gift? Come to TINY TOTLAND where we carry furniture, accessories, wall decorations, lamps, toys, mattresses, cribs, and much more. Open 9-5:30 M. & Th. 9-9. Pike celebrates Middle Ages

The cafeteria at the Pike School was transformed into a banquet hall for a medieval dinner last week.

The event was part of the sixth-grade program and got all the students and faculty at that level involved.

The banquet is an extension of the sixth-grade medieval history unit. Students and their teachers were dressed like western Europeans and Middle Easterners in medieval times.

They formed a candlelight procession to enter the banquet hall for a meal similar to what would have been served 500 years ago.

Replicas of stained-glass windows created by the sixth-graders in their art classes will decorate the hall.

Entertainment included music, a sword-fencing competition, juggling and dances of the period. Youngsters dramatized scenes from their own sequel to Otto of the Silver Hand, a book they read in their literature classes.

The annual event was sponsored by the sixth grade and history department.

Speaker talks about special-needs kids

A University of Massachusetts professor will talk about the social skills and development of special-needs children next week.

Dr. Gary N. Siperstein will address the North Andover Parent Advisory Council for Special Education Tuesday, March 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the North Andover Middle School cafeteria.

PAC members meet at 7 for coffee and conversation.

Geared to learning disabled, "at-risk" and "under-achieving" students, Dr. Siperstein will speak about social skills and helping children cope with the stress of everyday school experiences.

He will address topics such as self-esteem, social and emotional relationships, stress management, social competence and school transitions, like going from elementary to middle school.

Dr. Siperstein is the director of the Center for the Study of Social Acceptance at the University of Massachusetts at Boston. He received his doctorate in psychology/special education from Yeshiva University in New York.

For the past 10 years the center has been designing curriculum for in-service teacher-training programs concerned with the social development of children with disabilities.

The meeting is free and open to the public. For information, call the North Andover special needs department at 794-1717.

You cannot spend too much for a good school system!

The next few years will be a time of change and revitalization in Andover's Schools. We have a new superintendent • we will hire three new principals this year • the rate of teacher retirements is picking up. Our student population has begun growing again • the techniques and technology of education are evolving at an ever increasing rate.

Assuring adequate and appropriate space for all our students will soon again require positive action. Assuring the funding to achieve all this will be a challenge.

Now, more than ever, it is crucial that members of the School Committee have students and schools as their first priority.

Now, more than ever, our schools need a School Committee who are advocates for the schools — whose members have knowledge, time and energy they are willing to dedicate freely to the school system.

You CAN spend too little.

Today's children do not deserve to be shortchanged. We had the benefits of a full, rich education • our children deserve the same — and the world needs the best educated citizens possible.

Childhood is the time to learn and a lost childhood cannot be recovered.

Y registers kids for child care

The Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA will hold registrations for fall school-age child care at Faith Lutheran Church.

The YMCA began offering school-age child care to residents of Andover and North Andover in 1983. To meet the growing need in the community, the Faith Lutheran site was opened in September 1987, said Cathy Dawson, youth program director.

The program seeks to provide recreational and educational activities that stimulate growth and provide the security and safety of a home-like setting, Ms. Dawson said. Positive self-esteem is developed through personal interaction, crafts, free play, outdoor games, movies and homework time, she said.

The program at Faith Lutheran Church meets from the time school gets out until 6 p.m. on school days and half days.

On school vacation weeks, most holidays and snow days, the Y offers programs for these children at the its own facility, 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

For more information on the program, contact Ms. Dawson at the YMCA at 685-3541. Or call Amy Vaillencourt, site director at Faith Lutheran, at 474-0779 from 4 to 6 p.m. daily.

Play group celebrates season

This month Playful People celebrates two occasions. The group will celebrate St. Patrick's Day with a party Thursday, March 14, and Easter, Thursday, March 28.

The donation is $1 per parent and $1 per child over 9 months. The morning includes toys, crafts, music and snack. No registration is required.

Scouts visit lawyer alumna

As part of their citizenship badge, the Girl Scouts of St. Augustine's Troop 104 visited attorney Leah Doherty, whose offices are in Lawrence. These sixth-grade Scouts have much in common with Ms. Doherty as she also attended St. Augustine's School and was an active Girl Scout until high school.

The Scouts had many questions on what a lawyer does, how much schooling she has to have and whether she has to visit prisons. Ms. Doherty said her job not only entails criminal law but also legal help to people adopting babies or buying houses. Other clients are unhappy with a purchase from a store or have been hurt.

She told the Scouts that prospective lawyers have to like to talk on the phone, do research on laws as they are constantly changing and be able to speak to people without judging them.

Here are the Scouts who visited Ms. Doherty: Katie Browne, Almee Dollard, Kristen Kaczynski, Meghan Roberts, Elizabeth Kay, Kathy Anderson, Amy St. Jean, Katie Hadden and Jenny Berube.

Their leaders are Claire Browne and Joan Dollard.

This week is National Girl Scout Week.

Shawsheen Daisy Scout troop invested

Daisy Girl Scout Troop 414 from Shawsheen Early Childhood Center was invested into Scouting. The girls recited the Girl Scout promise and placed a petal on a paper flower to represent the Girl Scout laws.

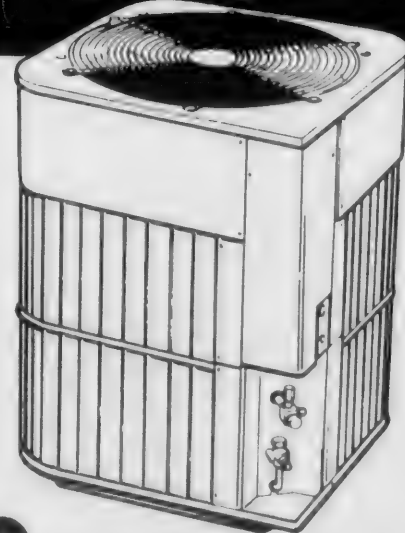

The girls have been busy learning about birds and animals. They toured the Andover Animal Hospital.

Sue Gardner and Ginny Cohen are the troop's leaders.

Troop 414 meets biweekly on Friday afternoon in the art room at Shawsheen School.

A-L-I-S-O-N spells 'winner'

The winner of this year's West Middle School spelling bee is eighth-grader Alison Bartlett, who out-spelled runner-up Aaryn Schmuhi.

Maurice Ferris served as master of ceremonies. Joan Zenofsky announced the words, and the judges were Mr. Ferris, Joseph Hagan and Gene Rapisardi. All 600-plus students had the opportunity to compete in individual spelling bees within the language arts classes, and each class section sent a delegate to the school spelling bee.

Eight consecutive participants misspelled the word "frivolous" in schoolwide competition. The last two words spelled correctly were "syntax" and "haziness."

Alison will represent West Middle in the ninth annual Eagle-Tribune spelling bee Thursday, April 4, at Methuen High School.

Here are the West Middle classroom winners who participated in the school competition:

Sixth grade: Stephanie Banos, Abby Clarke, Adam Espinola, Brian Flannagan, David Holmes, Alexis Olans, Marc Tropeano, Karthik Venkatesh and Heather Young.

Seventh grade: Brad Ackerman, Paul Chen, Aaron Cooper, Mark O'Brien, Rick Santagati, Patrick Sharkey, Melissa Strickland and Cindy Su.

Eighth grade: Amy Baker, Alison Bartlett, Sara Bryce, Pat Har, Nate Roberts, Aaryn Schmuhi, Eddie Seero and Zach Tanner.

Music Hall offers scholarship money

The trustees of Methuen Memorial Music Hall are seeking applications for two $500 scholarships. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors in the Merrimack Valley area who have been admitted to colleges for next year and are planning to major in music.

To apply, write to Richard J. Ouellette, 21 Mechanic St., West Newbury 01985-1512 by May 20. Tell him your name, address, telephone number, education, outline of musical studies and activities; college plans; a statement from one or two music teachers; and a statement of your life's goals.

'Process writer' talks to teachers

Mary Ellen Giacobbe, a teacher of and consultant in process writing, will discuss the art of teaching writing Thursday, March 14, at 7 p.m. in the West Elementary School auditorium.

The event is sponsored by the West and Sanborn elementary school parent-teacher organizations. The public is invited.

Students act on concern for environment

By Matt Goldstein

Melanie Spencer and Carly Determan are regular eighth-graders at West Middle School. But one thing that's unusual about them is that they have an adamant concern for the place in which we all live - the earth.

Both Melanie and Carly have always been interested in the environment, but it wasn't until recently that they started to get extremely concerned.

According to Carly, they finally realized they could do something about it.

The pair started a group called Teens for Environmental and Animal Rights, which is designed for students who want to get involved, but don't know how.

TEAR's ultimate goal is to keep students informed and concerned.

"The earth is a delicate balance between humans and mother nature, so treat it like a fragile balance that can easily be broken," Melanie says.

She and Carly also believe:

- We have to take care of our home or it won't take care of us.

- Good planets are hard to find.

- Eat veggies.

- Live on, love all, let live.

The two suggest that people concerned about the environment take a few simple steps, such as recycling, carpooling and boycotting products from companies that test on animals.

Some of you may want to go beyond boycotts: You may want to change your eating habits and stop consuming food products made from animals too.

If you do, Carly and Melanie recommend eating beans and nuts as well as green, leafy vegetables and tofu. You can get these things at your local grocery store and at special health-food stores.

If you have any questions about the new group or its goals, Carly and Melanie urge you to approach them.

Matt Goldstein is an eighth-grader at West Middle.

We want to tell you how things are progressing at the bank. The process of identifying prospective buyers for Bank of New England, The Connecticut Bank and Trust Company and Maine National Bank is well underway, and bids are due shortly. Until a sale occurs, each remains FDIC-owned. Many of our customers have asked how this affects them and their relationship with us. The simple answer is that it's definitely business as usual at the bank. We'd like you to know just what that means.

WE CONTINUE TO MEET CHANGING CUSTOMER NEEDS

Meeting customer needs means keeping our products and services competitive. We have joined other major banks in lowering interest rates on loans. We have responded to customer demand for competitive mortgage products, including first-time homebuyer programs and innovative refinancing plans. And we are providing consistently good rates of return on our money market, NOW, and savings accounts.

We know we are meeting your needs because our business is rapidly returning to earlier levels. Government and business money market deposits have risen 45% in Massachusetts and have more than doubled in Connecticut. The rollover rate for maturing corporate and personal CDs is strong and customer activity at our branches and ATMs is growing as well.

YES, WE ARE MAKING LOANS

The business of banking is making loans, not just taking deposits. We're making loans every day to individuals and businesses through mortgages, lines of credit, and other loan programs.

In fact, since January we have extended more than $100 million of new commercial credit and over $100 million of new consumer credit, including $25 million to finance student loans.

FAMILIAR PEOPLE TO BANK WITH, CONVENIENT PLACES TO BANK

We are very proud of the 12,000 people working at Bank of New England, Connecticut Bank and Trust, and Maine National Bank. You, our customers, have told us that the single most important reason for banking with us is our people and the way they deliver services with pride and integrity every day. All of our loan officers, customer service representatives, branch managers and support staff are committed to meeting your total banking needs. Nothing has changed. Our people are at the same convenient 323 offices, supported by nearly 4,500 ATMs throughout New England.

LET US KNOW IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW MORE

We hope this information answers your questions. If there is something more you would like to know, or if questions arise, we encourage you to talk with your local branch manager or account officer.

BrookRidge introduces second service

BrookRidge Community Church now has two interdenominational services on Sunday: a 10 a.m. "seekers' service" and an 11 a.m. community worship service. Both meet at West Elementary School on Beacon Street.

The seekers' service is designed for people investigating and evaluating Christianity and seeking to apply biblical principles to everyday living, said Pastor William D. Watson. Each Sunday it features a contemporary dramatic sketch and music, along with a message focusing on a theme. "Promiseland," an educational program for children, is provided during this service.

The 11 a.m. service features worship and teaching designed to help believers grow in their faith, Rev. Watson said.

The church also has a women's Bible study of the Book of Romans Thursdays at 10 a.m. Another Bible study, this one centered around the theme "God in You," is held Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m.

The church holds a support group each Tuesday night for people who have experienced a loss, such as divorce, death, illness or unemployment.

BrookRidge also offers a Bible study on Sunday nights on "Prophecy and the Middle East."

Temple Emanuel hosts other temples

Temple Emanuel will host the annual Union Shabbat with members of Temple Emanu-El in Haverhill and Temple Emanuel in Lowell Friday, March 15.

The rabbis of the respective synagogues will participate at the 8:15 p.m. service.

Keynote speaker will be Lydia Kukoff, director of the Commission on Reform Jewish Outreach and author and educator in Jewish adult education.

UU Church looks at Islam

The faith of Islam will be explored during an intergenerational service Sunday, March 17, at 10:30 a.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover. The service will be led by the Rev. David B. Parke and Marie Houck, director of religious education.

"This week's service is intended to be a celebration and examination of another very important world religion," explains Ms. Houck. "It was a surprise, however, to learn how difficult it has been to do the background study for this week's service. Much more information is available on many religions whose practicing membership is far smaller than Islam." The Islamic religion is the second largest in the world.

The word Islam means "submission to the word of God," but, like the Arabic word "salaam," it comes from the root word meaning "peace."

"Fasting from dawn to sunset in the month of Ramadan, which this year begins March 18, is the fourth 'pillar' of Islam," explains Rev. Parke. The daily fast ends with an evening feast called the "iftar."

The other four of the five pillars of Islam will be explained and discussed - the requirements of professing faith, praying five times a day, giving alms and making a pilgrimage to Mecca, known as "Hajj." This year the "Hajj" falls in April.

Sunday's service is open to all interested individuals as well as members of the Andover UU Church who are kindergarten age and older. Church school is open to all preschoolers, and a nursery is available for children under the age of 3.

The church is located at 6 Locke St.

Actress dramatizes Mark's Gospel

A dramatic presentation of the biblical Gospel according to St. Mark will be presented Saturday, March 16, at 7 p.m. at South Church, United Church of Christ, 41 Central St. in Andover. This is offered to the people and churches of the Merrimack Valley.

The performance, sponsored by the Massachusetts Bible Society, will feature actress Paula Thigpen of New York.

While attending the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, Ms. Thigpen played several Shakespearean roles, including Lady Macbeth in Macbeth and Kate in Taming of the Shrew.

She has also been in other productions, including Summer and Smoke, in which she played Mrs. Winemiller, Miss Reardon Drinks a Little as Anna, The Country Wife as Old Lady Squeamish and A Palm Tree in a Rose Garden as Lila.

Ms. Thigpen currently teaches a class of special-needs students in East Harlem.

She has performed The Gospel of St. Mark in many cities in the eastern United States, as well as in Paris, France. Her performance at Riverside Church in New York City was videotaped for cable television.

An offering will be received, and a coffee hour follows the presentation. Copies of St. Mark's Gospel, in Spanish and English, will be available.

Doing your grocery shopping can help temple

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel, on behalf of Temple Emanuel of Andover, will hold a Star Share fund-raising program today and tonight, March 14, at all Star Markets and participating Independent Star stores.

By shopping at Star Market, 5 percent of the total purchases will be donated by Star Markets to the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel.

Anyone interested in helping the temple's Sisterhood will need a "Star Share identification slip" and should contact Temple Emanuel on Haggetts Pond Road or Alice Radack of Andover to obtain the slip before shopping.

SENIORS

Center has a new PA system

By Mary A. Byrne

The Senior Center has a new PA system. We are now capable of piping music throughout the center. This addition was made possible by a gift from the board of directors of the Andover Home for Aged People. It's amazing how much music adds to the atmosphere. We have had so many positive comments and very much appreciate this generous gift.

Mark Abelson will conduct an eye screening at the Senior Center Thursday, April 4, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Call the center at 470-3830 for an appointment.

The next Supper Club evening is Wednesday, March 27, at 6 p.m. at the Andover Marriott on River Road. We enjoyed a wonderful evening last month. Call the Senior Center for more information.

"Happy Birthday" will be the theme of the next party on Thursday, April 11. Chet Harneden will be here and a roast beef dinner will be served. Ticket cost is $4.

Food commodity distribution will be Monday, March 25, at 10 a.m. at the center for those who have qualified.

Don't forget the tax volunteers are here if you need assistance. Call the center for an appointment.

If anyone would like to donate yarn to our craft group, it would be greatly appreciated.

St. A's group to meet

St. Augustine's senior get together will be held Wednesday March 20, from 1 to 3 p.m. in Good Counsel Hall. There will be entertainment and refreshments.

Senator to address group

State Sen. Patricia McGovern (D Lawrence) will hold an awareness seminar for the elderly at the senior center in Lawrence Tuesday, March 26, at 9:45 a.m.

Acting Secretary of Elder Affairs Franklin P. Olivierre will join Sen. McGovern in an effort to inform seniors about the new health care proxy law passed last year.

The law allows seniors to designate an effective "health proxy" in the event they are unable to make medical care decisions for themselves. The seminar will also seek to inform seniors about other aspects of the law designed to aid them in their health care decision making.

TOWNTALK

Don Hitchins, 37 Gray Road, spent the last week flying members of the Army's 82nd Airborne Division out of Saudi Arabia and into Frankfurt, Germany, the first stop on their way back to the United States.

Mr. Hitchins is a member of the Civilian Reserve Air Fleet, which has supported the military during the Gulf war. The CRAF is made up of commercial airline pilots and companies that have been on retainer by the government in case of emergencies, such as the Gulf war. He is the manager of plant maintenance for Northwest Airlines in Boston, which is a member of CRAF.

His wife, Sandy Hitchins, said this trip to Saudi Arabia has been "totally different" than the one he took in January when he transported troops to the central command post in Saudi Arabia. During those January flights, he and other CRAF pilots were warned about hostile conditions over the region.

Mrs. Hitchins said the atmosphere of this month's trips is very festive.

"He was really looking forward to the trip this time," said she said.

"It's a real party atmosphere there."

James Murphy, 442 South Main St., recently completed a weekend modeling workshop in Boston and is now looking into modeling as a second career.

"The way the economy is going I've been interested in earning extra income," he said.

He now is working for a grocery wholesaler and he hopes the seminar will help him break into the business.

Ever since he was in high school, Mr. Murphy said his father has encouraged him to looking into modeling.

"There's a market for just about everyone, mother and father types, as well as handsome men and beautiful women," said the 29-year-old.

The workshop included photography and video taping sessions and advice on how to prepare a portfolio to show to prospective employers, he said.

Jennifer A. Bateman, a sophomore at Andover High School, will compete with teen-age girls from other states to represent Massachusetts in the Miss Teen U.S.A. Pageant this August.

"The big think I saw is 'scholarship,'" said Ms. Bateman, who wants to be a lawyer.

Asked if she's nervous about competing, she said, "Not really. When it comes to the final days, I'll probably be going nuts."

She is the daughter of Andrea L. Norton of Andover and William J. Bateman of Methuen. She was selected as an entrant at large to compete in the 1991 Miss Massachusetts Teen U.S.A. Pageant to be held at the Sheraton Lincoln in Worcester on April 5, 6, and 7.

Miss Bateman is a member of the AHS fall cross country, winter and spring track teams. She also participates in the high school's community service programs, and has a part-time job at a local pizzeria. Her hobbies include kayaking, running and she is currently training to become a life guard.

HISTORY

This community has supported many war efforts

By Joan Patrakis
Andover Historical Society

With American flags and yellow ribbons decorating Main Street, Andover reflects the current spirit of the nation. It is a spirit Andover has displayed for more than 300 years. On the homefront and on the battlefield, its men and women gave their support and made their sacrifices for freedom.

In 1675 local militia joined other colonists to quell Indian uprisings in southeastern Massachusetts. However, a small band of "King Philip's" army crossed the Merrimack River into Andover murdering one young man and kidnapping his brother.

One hundred years later the struggle for American independence began in our own backyard. Two Andover companies of Minutemen answered the alarm at Lexington. Local men of all ages and experiences joined them. Townspeople gathered on Prospect Hill could hear the cannon and see smoke rise over the battlefield at Bunker Hill.

Civil War stirred up strong emotions in the hearts of Andover people whose forefathers had fought for this nation's freedom. Six hundred men risked their lives on the battlefields of the South; 13 died in the fight for Spottsylvania.

In foreign wars our people accomplished a number of firsts. An Andover soldier fired the first shot against the enemy in the Spanish-American conflict. World War I volunteers with the famous Yankee Division were among the first Americans to see combat in France. The entry of local women into war was marked when 10 served as Army or Red Cross nurses in World War I.

World War II called the greatest number of residents to the battle-grounds of Europe and the Pacific. Women served in all branches of the armed services. One, an officer, was awarded the Purple Heart. Male and female veterans of this war participated in the Korean and Vietnam conflicts that followed. More than 600 men and women went into the service in both those wars. Several have answered the call to the Persian Gulf.

On the homefront Andover people have played an equally significant role. During the recent crisis the town gained national attention as the home of the notorious Patriot missile. Andover played a similar role in the American Revolution when gunpowder manufactured here supplied the colonists with badly-needed ammunition.

Through their loyal support and sacrifices townspeople contributed to the war effort. Women prepared provisions and medicines for the troops of the Revolution and nursed the sick and wounded at home. Civil War women made clothing and bandages and raised money for hospital supplies. Similar efforts were carried out in the first and second world wars by local Red Cross volunteers. Victory gardens, blackouts, war bonds, food and gas rationing became a necessary way of life during those wars.

Throughout the generations Andover has proudly displayed its patriotic spirit. Gigantic flags were unfurled from public buildings in the early days of the Civil War. Parades and celebrations have sent troops off to war and welcomed them home. Memorial observances have traditionally honored those who gave their lives. In recent years memorial flags donated by veterans' families are flown along Main Street in their honor on national holidays.

As national pride and patriotic display decorate Main Street it somehow seems fitting to remember that on this street 160 years ago the well-known hymn "America" was written.

RECYCLING

By Virginia Cole

There is hope for those who live in apartment complexes and those interested in recycling from their place of business. Waste Management, the company that has Andover's contract for recycling, and BFI Waste System, which does recycling in nearby towns, are interested in you. Talk to them because you will have to work out your own contract with your apartment complex or commercial or industrial establishment and the hauler.

Andover does not pick up trash from apartments or businesses and the recycling contract was negotiated the same way. Seems a bit unfair to me, but that's the way it has been done and until some of you complain loud enough that's the way it will be done.

But at any rate, with some cooperation, you could have trash pickup and recycling for the same amount of money spent and maybe it will cost less. Call Jim Robichaud at Waste Management - there is an 800 number in the book. There is a Lawrence number for

BFI. Try talking about mixed waste paper, perhaps corrugated cardboard and computer paper. The prices of these goods go up and down and the public never seems to know which is high or low. Get on their lists; have them come to see you. This is a very changeable industry. Good luck and say I sent you.

Five are running for Board of Selectmen

- Opposes an override on either school or town side of budget.
- Agreed with 120 percent tax classification shift to protect residential property owners.
- Favors renegotiating town employee contracts to control budget.

'The exchange of information between the board and the community is critical.'

Christine Holmes

ence as a moderator of debates and public forums.

Reason for running

"I have the knowledge, the ability and the time to do the job. I'm very familiar with the functions and responsibilities of the board. My homework has already been done. I will be an effective member of the board immediately."

Budget priorities

- Living within the town manager's budget.

- Retaining jobs utilizing cost-cutting measures used in private industry.

Important issues

"The exchange of information between the board and the community is critical."

"The challenge for selectmen will be attempting to achieve balance between providing services, with the declining state aid and falling local revenues, and finding new ways of providing those services less expensively."

Personal

Ms. Holmes attended Pierce College, in California.

She has a daughter, Laura, 24, a

Syracuse University graduate now employed at The Boston Company, and a son, Derek, 20, a student at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut.

James Barenboim

James M. Barenboim, 35, of 13 Bateson Drive, is a salesman for Pacific Paper Products of Lawrence, and has lived all his life in Andover.

Mr. Barenboim is an incumbent

'I believe the town of Andover must return to basics. Under Proposition 2 1/2 we must cut out the extras and learn to live within our budget.'

James Barenboim

seeking his second term on the board. He is currently chairman.

Stand on issues

- Charging for trash collection should be considered as an alternative to an override of Proposition 2 1/2.

- Believes town residents should have the chance at town meeting to vote on an override.

- Opposes a shift in the tax classification.

- Favors renegotiating employee contracts if cuts are equal for all departments.

Experience

Mr. Barenboim is a past director of Goodwill Industries in Merrimack Valley, past director of Temple Emanuel and of the Jewish Community Center of Greater Lawrence. He was president of the Andover Civil Defense and a member of the auxiliary police for 12 years.

Reason for running

Budget priorities

- Control spending on salaries.
- Study the needs of municipal maintenance.

Important issues

"I believe the next few years should be concentrated on our infrastructure."

Personal

Mr. Barenboim attended Andover schools and has a bachelor's degree in business administration from New Hampshire College.

He and his wife, Maureen, have two children, a daughter, Shana, 11, and son, Derek, 7, both students at Sanborn School.

Larry Larsen

Larry L. Larsen, 54, of 53 Birch Road, is a clinical psychologist with an office downtown. He has lived in Andover for nearly 20 years. He is also president and part owner of a firm that publishes two weekly newspapers in Maine.

He is currently vice chairman of the Andover Council on Aging. He ran an unsuccessful campaign for a seat on the School Committee about 19 years ago. This is his first run for selectman.

Stand on issues

- Opposes user fees for trash collection, but would accept them as an alternative to laying off teachers.

- Does not support renegotiating increases out of employee contracts, but would leave that option open to the employees as a way of avoiding layoffs.

- Would have put the school's Proposition 2 1/2 override proposal on the election ballot instead of on the Town Meeting warrant.

- Supports a more active role for the board in reviving the Central Business District.

Experience

Mr. Larsen was chairman of a task force to explore elder services in Andover and authored the report of that group. He is a former director of St. Ann's Home, a residential treatment center for children in Methuen, has been a corporate organization and development consultant and taught at the University of Massachusetts.

He is a former chairman of the Merrimack Valley United Fund and a past president of the Greater Lawrence Area Mental Health/Mental Retardation Board, Fidelity House, Citizens League for Adult Special Service and

Larry Larsen

Creative Living Inc. He also served on a state commission to aid returning Vietnam prisoners of war.

Reason for running

"We need a positive, affirmative government, especially in these difficult times. For the last 20 years, Andover has been good to me. This is my special opportunity to give something in return."

Budget priorities

- Preserve the infrastructure of the town.

- Keep the quality of the public schools.

- Market and develop downtown, including a realistic parking plan.

- Enable increasing senior population to enjoy a good life.

Important issues

"During these difficult times, we need realism and creativity. We must reach within ourselves for resources. We must be more self-reliant. We need to re-awaken the notion of a 'talent bank' and 'idea bank' and all see ourselves as public servants. Public employees, as in the private sector, must become more productive and efficient. We must cease being 'service junkies,' a malady of the '80s, and ask how each one of us can help as private citizens. An example of a public agency's efforts in that regard is the 1992 budget for the Council on Aging, which operates the Senior Center. Though more active than ever, the center actually reduced its budget."

Personal

Mr. Larsen has a bachelor's degree in Latin and Greek, and a master's degree in philosophy and religion, both from Baylor University, in Texas. He continued his graduate study at Yale University Divinity School, received a master's degree in experimental psychology from Wesleyan University, in Middletown, Conn., and a doctorate in clinical psychology from Boston University.

He and his wife, Nancy, have two children, a son, Peter, a ministerial student at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary, in Hamilton, and a daughter, Ann, a student at Baylor University. Both children graduated from Andover schools.

Susan O'Neill

Susan K. O'Neill, 43, of 11 Argyle St., is part-time grant writer for the Citizens' League for Adult Special Services, in Lawrence, and has lived in Andover seven years.

This is Ms. O'Neill's second run for selectman. She ran last year against an incumbent, William Downs, and lost.

Stand on issues

- Opposes user fee for trash collection.

- Opposes renegotiating contracts this year, but supports keeping the size of increases in mind during the next negotiating period.

- Supports putting the school's Proposition 2 1/2 override question to Town Meeting for debate and vote. Also supports override questions

Ms. O'Neill has been publicity chairman for Merrimack Junior Theatre and Andover Theatre Company productions. She worked with the Project Charlie substance abuse and education program at West Elementary School for a number of years and helped coach U10 boys soccer. Ms. O'Neill has been an interpreter for the Andover Historical Society, a host parent for A Better Chance and editor of the CLASS newsletter.

She also served as secretary to the Hampden Recreation Committee, in Hampden, Maine, coordinator of a playground project in Bar Harbor, Maine, and publicity chairman for Special Olympics in Hancock County, Maine.

Reasons for running

"I've always tried to serve the town I've lived in. I feel, if a person is capable, she should—that's the essence of government by the people, after all."

Budget priorities

- A well run school system.
- Services for the elderly.
- Public safety.
- Long-range plans for maintaining buildings and roads.

Important issues

• "As long as we have Proposition 2 1/2, we should use it. I would rather see drastic cuts go on a ballot, for the people to decide, than have big decisions made by the government alone. Such cuts should be itemized clearly, with price tags and consequences made into several questions if necessary. If the people vote them down, the government makes the cuts with the people's blessing; it reduces ill-will and puts the power where it should be."

Personal

Ms. O'Neill has a bachelor's degree in journalism and advertising from the University of Maine, at Orono, and a nursing degree from Holy Cross School of Nursing, in South Bend, Ind.

She was a registered nurse from 1968-'80, serving with the Peace Corps in Venezuela and after that with the U.S. Army in Vietnam. She has written two as-yet unpublished novels and has published several magazine articles.

Ms. O'Neill and her husband, Paul, have three children, Kym, 20, a student at Drew University in New Jersey, Kramer, 15, and Kelly, 11, both students in Andover schools.

John Doyle

John Doyle, 66, of 40 Reservation Road, has been an Andover resident 51 years.

He is a professional model maker, artist and photographer specializing in architectural, engineering and developmental projects.

Mr. Doyle has run three unsuccessful campaigns for the position of town moderator, in 1988-'90. This is his first run for selectman.

Experience

He served on the Andover School Building Committee Resource Bank from 1978-'83, earning an award for being instrumental in establishing the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts.

In 1986, Mr. Doyle initiated local legislation establishing the process of recording and transcribing all town meetings.

He is a former director and a past president of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Society.

Mr. Doyle, citing a previous dispute with the Townsman, opted not to respond to either a profile questionnaire mailed to all candidates or to the weekly questions asked of the other candidates over the past several weeks. The information here was taken from previous campaign information.

Small turnout for Chamber's candidates' forum

By Don Staruk

The biggest story from the Andover Chamber of Commerce's candidate forum, for selectman, Tuesday morning at Old Town Hall could have been the poor showing by Andover business people.

Enzo Fossella, chamber president, said invitations were mailed late. But the fact that only 20 people attended the 7:30 a.m. function could indicate either a lack of communication among business people or apathy in the Central Business District.

The Planning Board formed a subcommittee to study the CBD last year and selectmen are now debating recommendations made by that group. But those most affected by changes downtown—the business owners with a few exceptions, have not been active in making plans.

The candidates touched on overrides and the future of the central business district.

Among the 20 members of the audience Tuesday morning was state Rep. Gary Coon (R-Andover), who was directed by more than one of the candidates to get up to the Statehouse and fight for local aid.

Overrides

James Barenboim, incumbent selectman candidate, told Mr. Coon and the group that he would have voted against an override for either the town or the school before local aid cuts were announced by Gov. Weld last week, but that now he is not so sure how he would vote.

Susan O'Neill said she is "180 degrees" from Ms. Holmes in her position on overrides.

"I'm going to vote for the Proposition 2 1/2 overrides," Ms. O'Neill said. The value of what is being gained by the overrides is worth it, Ms. O'Neill said.

Christine Holmes said the $300,000 override proposal for road maintenance is "more palatable" than the $1.5 million school request, but for the sake of consistency and in lieu of a master plan, she would oppose it.

John Doyle is against any override. "At this point I tend not to favor an override," Larry Larsen said, but added that his mind was not made up yet.

CBD

Mr. Larsen agreed with the CBD study that a task force be formed as soon as possible to facilitate new businesses in settling in Andover. He also called for a parking commission to be formed. He blasted the new $15 parking fines as an "insane idea."

Ms. O'Neill praised postal and town officials for bringing the post office back into the CBD and said keeping the CBD a commerce center should be a priority. "Most of what I'm wearing today was bought in Andover," Ms. O'Neill told the group.

Ms. Holmes attributed many of the problems in the CBD to the general economy. She said that while selectmen could facilitate the Chamber of Commerce in dealing with problems in the CBD, they should not attempt to legislate business.

Ms. Holmes praised the relocation of Thompson's Office Products to its new location and wanted to encourage more redevelopment downtown. She said town officials should do whatever needs to be done regarding the litigation for the old bowling alley on Park Street so that property can be developed.

"I think we should bite the bullet and just do it," Ms. Holmes said.

John Doyle said the entire country has been doing things wrong since World War II and that he doesn't expect that to change with the new governor in the Statehouse, but suggested a general plan be made for future development of the town. He also opposed fines for parking in the CBD.

"I guess I'm gloom and doom, but I'm really a happy person," Mr. Doyle said.

Mr. Barenboim apologized for missing the selectmen's vote that increased the tax classification shift to 120 percent for businesses. He polled board members prior to leaving town on a business trip and understood that the shift would not be increased, he said.

"I was very confident that it was going to remain 15 percent," he said.

Voters need answers

There still are some answers voters need before making a decision at the March 25 town election about the School Committee race. We hope those answers come at tonight's forum, 7:30 at Memorial Hall Library, sponsored by the Andover League of Women Voters.

During last week's forum at West Elementary School, the audience pushed Susan Poore, School Committee incumbent, to say specifically where she would cut the schools budget since she is against overriding Proposition 2 1/2. Her answers were vague — she did not really answer. We urge Ms. Poore to give tonight's audience specific areas in which she believes the budget could be cut to balance it.

We also urge Ms. Poore to answer the questions that Mike Frishman, an incumbent in the School Committee race, most likely will ask of his fellow committee member tonight. And if he does not ask, we hope someone in the audience will. Specifically, voters deserve to know if Ms. Poore really lives in Andover. And another question about Ms. Poore that is pertinent is the fact that her name is on the town's delinquent property taxpayer list. She says that is a mistake, but she has not come up with evidence that that is the case. The number-one job of a public official is to support the town, and withholding payment of taxes is the opposite of support.

We understand that Ms. Poore represents many people who do not favor overriding Proposition 2 1/2. And at times she is a valuable member because she dares raise difficult questions and she's not afraid to go against the tide. But voters should beware that without a clear plan of budget cuts, Ms. Poore is making empty promises to voters.

Another candidate who needs to come up with an answer is John Wragg, who also is running for School Committee. When he last was on the committee, in 1974, he resigned after 18 months because his job took him out of town too often. When asked at last Thursday's forum how voters can be certain this won't happen again, Mr. Wragg gave what seemed a sarcastic answer, saying voters couldn't be sure and he might have to go and help rebuild Kuwait. Voters deserve a better answer than that.

A motorist passes one of the many potholes that dot Stevens Street in front of the post office. As fast as DPW crews patch the holes, cars open them up again. Residents will face a $300,000 one-time override of Proposition 2 1/2 at the April 1 Town Meeting, which would be solely to pay for pothole repairs. If the override passes, the money that it adds to the town budget would only be added for this year. In other words, when town officials figure future budgets, the $300,000 would not be included in the amount of money the town has to add together before multiplying 2 1/2 times the town's revenues to come up with the next amount of money available.

Feisty forum serves its purpose

By Perry Catlin

Here's who you're facing when voting March 25 for two people to serve on the School Committee: a businessman who's sick of seeing public school graduates who can't read and write and who says it's bunk that we need a larger school budget (John Wragg); an incumbent who dares go against the tide of the rest of the School Committee and who says talk of overriding Prop. 2 1/2 is just a bunch of scare tactics (Susan Poore); and a determined woman who finds fault with the current School Committee, sees the school buildings as "falling down," and who has done a great deal of research on the schools (Sue Jenkins).

I was impressed with the candidates and the level of questions asked at last Thursday's candidates forum, sponsored by the West Elementary School PTO.

The audience hit Mr. Wragg and Ms. Poore with some difficult questions, but both remained poised. At one time, Ms. Poore came close to the edge when she said, "There are certain of my detractors trying to paint me as a raving maniac, which I am not."

Attorney Debra Silberstein pushed Mr. Wragg about the fact that he resigned from the School Committee during his term in the '70s. Saying the town needs a commitment from School Committee members, Ms. Silberstein asked, "How do I know you aren't going to get on the School Committee and then resign?"

"The answer is you don't," Mr. Wragg said in his loud, forceful voice. "I may get a job assignment to go help rebuild Kuwait."

Both Ms. Jenkins and Mr. Wragg criticized the incumbents, at times with energy and the naivete of non-incumbents. Both showed they haven't been through the pain of budget cuts, teacher contract negotiations, hiring a superintendent, and worrying about building maintenance when School Committee members would like to be concentrating on more philosophical questions such as educational direction.

One of the best comments of the evening came from Sue Jenkins, who, I thought, summed up her educational philosophy this way: "It's not important for a child to know the 50 states and their capitals, but they need to know how to get that information."

Mr. Wragg's idea of a well-educated person is someone who "the business industry will be more receptive to." A member of the audience accused him of being interested only in the basics and neglecting the arts. Mr. Wragg said he didn't want to eliminate art and music, just cut back and run them "more efficiently," his goal for much of the school budget.

The audience, which was feisty at times, pushed Ms. Poore about her stand against an override. She talked about "some realignments" and "restructuring" beginning at the classroom level when asked how the schools can afford to keep Shawshen School open and continue the music and art programs without an override. "It's how you spend your money, not how much you have," she said.

Ms. Poore added that she doesn't agree with Superintendent Mark McQuillan's cuts in art and music. "That would take away teacher planning time," she said.

"This system can function within the amount of money it has," she insisted. But she never was specific about what she would cut to balance the budget without an override.

LETTERS

Why was the patriotism shallow?

Editor, Townsmen:

I am writing in response to the letter printed in last week's Townsmen entitled, "It's a shallow form of patriotism."

In the letter, Ms. Carole Chandler writes, "To go to a parade and wave a flag may make us feel good about ourselves and proud to be an American, but it must be said, this is a shallow form of patriotism."

I am not questioning Ms. Chandler's right to voice her opinion. However, if this is her true opinion, why not explain how the patriotism shown at the parade was shallow?

Ms. Chandler goes on to say in her letter that if we stand up for the rights of the least powerful, defend freedom of speech, be inconvenienced for the sake of the environment, provide good public education for all Americans, and demand that no one be homeless nor without health care, then we would be showing the essence of patriotism.

All of this is inarguably true, but still I ask why is the patriotism shown at the parade "shallow?"

Why should Ms. Chandler criticize the 1,000-plus people who came out to show support for our country and our troops in bitterly cold weather by saying that their patriotism is, at best, "shallow?"

Ms. Chandler has explained to us many great ways to express our patriotism and I thank her for the reminders. However, when it comes to the parade, I think she has missed the point.

To criticize constructively is good, but to just criticize is troublesome.

We have to forgive Iraq

Editor, Townsmen:

I think we can accomplish peace by the following:

Middle East's role: If I could do something about how we could make peace with Iraq after the war, I would say that Iraq should promise to leave Kuwait for good and not threaten Israel anymore. They should try to be friends with all the countries around them. But Iraq can't do everything. All the other countries in the Middle East have to try to be friends with Iraq too. All the countries over there have to notice and respect the differences between one another.

United States' role: We have to try to respect Arab differences too. We have to forgive Iraq and not hate them forever. We should not hate all the Arabs just because of what's happening in the Middle East today.

If we could try to understand what they are doing and why they are doing it then I think we could get a lot farther a lot more peacefully.

Library story was confusing

Editor, Townsmen:

I found your front-page article on the library very confusing. ("Library's music collection to suffer: Sunday hours to go," March 7.) The second sentence says the $14,000 reduction is 7 percent - 7 percent of what? A $14,000 reduction over the current budget of $1,220,000 is only 1.15 percent reduction. If my sixth-grade mathematics is correct.

The other savings listed later in the article do not seem to add up either. "Cutting the one full-time employee and eight part-time employees will save $77,000." Does the include $30,000 saved in salary for the halftime music/reference librarian and halftime managing and selecting the music collection? Is the $20,000 saved by closing the Ballardvale annex (mostly the salary for one librarian and a page) in part included in the $77,000 salary cuts? If so, the savings are more nearly $100,000, not the $154,000 implied in your article if one simply adds all the various savings you indicated.

Ms. Jacobson is to be commended for her efforts to reduce the library budget. Yes, times are tough and we must all sacrifice a little bit here and a little bit there until the economic conditions improve.

Harry Bedell
123 Chestnut St.

Editor's note: Ms. Jacobson says she arrived at her figures by taking FY '91 budget, $1,200,000, and adding salary increases and cost of living increases and then cutting 7 percent of the budget.

Charlie health fair was full of information

Editor, Townsmen:

I wanted to express my pleasure and appreciation to the many safety, recreational, educational and other community agencies that put so much effort into the Project Charlie Health Fair held at the Andover High School last Thursday night.

The evening was filled with information and entertainment for all ages. The high school students were wonderful as hosts and helpers for the younger kids, and the cafeteria staff created a most delicious, as well as low-fat, nutritious dinner. (Any chance such fare can be served during the school day at the elementary level?)

I saw countless 7-10-year-olds happily munching away on chicken, rice, sherbet and raw veggies blissfully unaware that the stuff was actually good for them. Thanks to all and I hope to see this event repeated next year.

Study was not asinine, it was canine

Editor, Townsmen:

Elizabeth Prout writes a whole column disparaging a research project or why dogs bark ("Looking into Rover's bark," page 41, March 7.)

One might expect that with such a lengthy critique she had at least a minimal knowledge on the subject, but as her letter makes evident, she does not. If there is one fact that anyone who knows anything about dog barking research knows, it is that such a study is not asinine, as she contends, but canine.

to have an override for the schools. "You can't spend too much for a good school system, but you can spend too little," he said. He said Ms. Poore doesn't say what she would cut from the budget, since she won't override. "Teachers are 60 percent of the budget so we will lose some of them" without an override, Mr. Frishman said.

Ms. Jenkins added, "We keep taking away and nothing gets put back in."

I liked the fact that Mr. Frishman's interested in a program in New York that gives small money awards to teachers who are doing well. My experience is that teachers get nervous when we talk about rewarding the good ones with money, but I still think it's a good idea.

Someone asked the candidates if current School Committee members are meddling in the day-to-day operations of the schools instead of concentrating on setting policy. Ms. Jenkins said yes, Mr. Frishman said no.

There was quite a lot of discussion about the condition of the school buildings. Ms. Poore said they are on schedule for being repaired; Mr. Frishman agreed, but said there's not enough money to keep up with the repairs; Ms. Jenkins is very worried about them and said putting them in order would be one of her biggest priorities as a committee member; and Mr. Wragg said he is an engineer and he offered suggestions of how to right the air quality of older buildings.

One item all agreed on was Superintendent McQuillan. They all think he's the best, and Mr. Wragg called him "a sharp cookie."

Mr. Wragg threw around numerous numbers. He said that the school budget received a 10 percent increase in FY '85, a 9 percent increase in FY '86, then a 7 percent increase and then a 14 percent increase.

"Those are not small increases," he said. "They exceed the cost of living, inflation." And he claimed that in a five-year period, the schools have enjoyed a 56 percent increase - at a time when there was a 7 percent decrease in the school population. In the '60s, there were more than 6,000 students, said Mr. Wragg, and today there are 4,700-plus.

A man who said he was nervous, so he would read his question, addressed Ms. Poore and said people say she often is unprepared for School Committee meetings and it often "is unclear if you have read or understand the budget packages." In addition, read the man, "You have missed 25 percent of the meetings during your tenure and you also unnecessarily filibuster School Committee business."

"You are talking about perceptions," answered Ms. Poore.

Picking up steam, the man said she had missed 18 out of 72 meetings.

"If I have missed a meeting, it is for a good reason," she answered.

About filibustering, Ms. Poore said, "No one has ever accused me of not speaking my mind."

She said she doesn't know the origin of the charge that she's unprepared for meetings. And finally she said, "I am what I am and most people know me for that."

See you at the polls March 25.

Gimme, gimme . . .

spend more tax dollars when surplus cash, both state and town, is available and waiting to be spent. When are we going to face facts and admit that "hard times" are really here and here for a good while to come?

It's not so easy to "cut" spending when the surpluses have dried up and it is time to reduce the tax burden, cut expenses to meet income, not dream up new ways to add to the tax burden.

The public school system was designed to provide "good" basic education for the general public. In palmer days we found ways to stretch that function to include all sorts of goodies for special interest groups. It is always very unpopular to discontinue some service you have become used to, but can no longer afford. The state has already announced a 20-percent decrease in state aid to Andover. Unemployment in our area is running 10 to 15 percent. We cannot overlook the unemployed professionals and tradesmen (and women) who are trying to keep a roof over their heads and feed and clothe their children and make ends meet while trying to find suitable employment without success. Meanwhile, we are looking for ways to increase the tax burden on them?

As Dr. Odum and S. Milstone were quoted in your article, it is not and should not be the function of the Andover public school system to provide babysitting (day care) services. Day care is a business that should be left to the private sector. If the Andover public school system is not providing everything that would be nice to have, there are many very good private schools in this area. Maybe you should send your kiddies to one of them.

Parents seek commitment on Shawsheen

By Lisa Boudreau

About a dozen parents left Tuesday night's School Committee meeting disappointed the committee hadn't made a commitment to keep the Shawsheen School open.

If an override of Proposition 2 1/2 fails at Town Meeting April 1, the school is scheduled to close unless a profitable combination of before- and after-school care with a kindergarten through grade two primary program can be merged in the building.

"The Shawsheen School is a treasure of the town," said Shawsheen School parent Larry Lewis, of 75 Stevens St.

If the school is closed and teachers are separated and moved back into the four elementary schools, Mr. Lewis believes their effectiveness as a team will be diminished.

"I'm afraid teachers will emotionally experience this as a failure of the town to appreciate what has gone on at the school.

"If Andover can't afford a Shawsheen School who can?" asked Mr. Lewis.

He and his wife, Karen, have a son in the school's kindergarten program and a 3-year-old daughter and a third child due in the spring who the Lewises hope will be able to attend the Shawsheen School in the future.

Prakash Joshi, another parent, praised the education his two children received at Shawsheen School. Mr. Joshi told the committee he believes the current fiscal constraints that force a reorganization of the school can also bring creative solutions.

"The proposed concept of K through 2 integrated primary at Shawsheen is an example of an innovative, yet fiscally responsible solution," said Mr. Joshi.

"By nurturing children to develop at their individual pace, the Early Childhood Center curriculum provides a solid foundation toward their future learning styles," he said.

The subcommittee on instruction, Andres Salazar and Michael Frishman, reported back to committee members that there are two workable alternatives currently being explored.

One would create a "magnet" kindergarten through grade two program where parents could elect to send their children. It would include a before- and after-school care program to raise money to fund the school.

The second is a K-2 satellite school with two kindergarten classrooms set aside for South School children and five classrooms dedicated for West Elementary K-2 children as well as before- and after-school care to raise money. This model would target students at the town's most crowded elementary schools.

The Shawsheen School proposals will be discussed at the committee's next meeting, Tuesday, March 26.

Also to be discussed and voted on at the same meeting are the institution of busing fees and opening 50 seats at the high school to tuition-paying out-of-town students. Tuition cost for out-of-town students could range from $4,770 to $5,145 the committee estimates.

Both proposals have passed a first vote of the committee. Each needs a second vote to change the existing School Committee policy.

If the busing policy is implemented, students who live between two and one and one half miles from school will pay $117 to ride the bus next year. Students who live less than one and one-half mile will pay $206 to ride the bus. The administration anticipates it can net about $100,000 from the fees.

Busing fees to be discussed at the March 26 meeting.

South African native talks about art trends

Paul Stopforth, who was born in South Africa, will present a slide lecture on current trends in art in his native country on Thursday, March 14.

The lecture, which is free and open to the public, will be held at 12:30 p.m. in Merrimack College's library and is being sponsored by the college's fine arts department.

Mr. Stopforth is an international artist who has worked and shown his work in Johannesburg and other South African cities as well as in London, Paris and Boston.

In 1958 he was artist-in-residence at Tufts University where he has since taught as a member of the continuing education faculty.

Mr. Stopforth's work was included last fall in a Merrimack exhibit of three figurative artists called "The Body Politic."

Italian songs on St. Pat's Day?

Soprano Ruth Harcovitz will perform Sunday, March 17, at 3 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library. Pianist Michael Strauss will accompany her. This program, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, is free.

After graduating from New England Conservatory, Ms. Harcovitz studied in Europe at the Vienna Academy of Music, which led to performances in European opera houses.

After returning to the United States, she has been engaged by the Sante Fe Opera, the International Opera Festival, Opera New England and others.

She also appears as guest soloist with orchestras and choral societies.

Ruth Harcovitz

Local artist displays watercolors

Andover artist Doris Peterson will have her watercolors on display in the library's music room during the month of March.

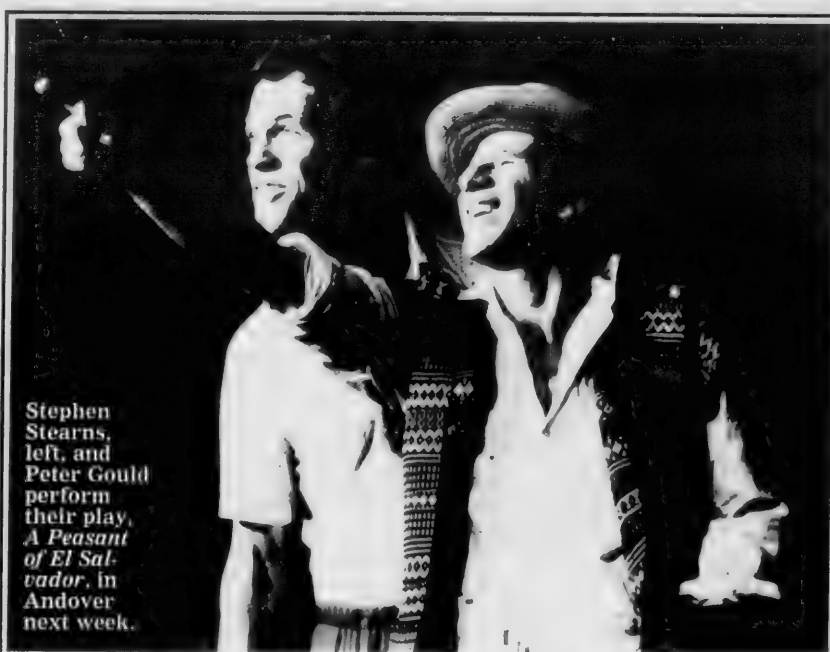

Ms. Peterson was president of the Andovers Artists Guild and co-chairwoman of the guild's Art in The Park show and sale for three years.

She credits the organization for the opportunity to develop her art avocation after having spent years of preparation, studying under such artists as Bette Wasserboehr, Bette Lou Schlemm, Martin Ahern and Cory Stald.

The pursuit of sumi-e (Japanese brush stroking) took her to Exeter, England, for an international workshop with Shozo Sato.

Born in Los Angeles, Ms. Peterson became interested in fashion design while in high school and took classes in design structure at Pasadena City College. She has lived in Andover since 1977.

Stephen Stearns, left, and Peter Gould perform their play, A Peasant of El Salvador, in Andover next week.

Play gives voice to El Salvadorans

The award-winning play A Peasant of El Salvador will have a single performance at St. Robert Bellarmine Church on Haggetts Pond Road Friday, March 22, at 8:15 p.m. This drama has received standing ovations in 41 states and London since its first show on Palm Sunday, 10 years ago, in Brattleboro, Vt.

The story, created and performed by Peter Gould and Stephen Stearns, involves an aging hill farmer and his family who are trying to maintain the life they have always known amidst turbulent times in El Salvador. Their struggle, rooted in faith, family and the land, stands out against a backdrop of sweeping social and political change.

Combining sensitivity with humor, the play is interspersed with mime and Latin American music.

Sixteen characters are created by the versatile duo. Mr. Gould plays the old farmer, while Mr. Stearns portrays numerous other characters. One of these is the late Archbishop Oscar Romero, who was assassinated in San Salvador by paramilitary forces on March 24, 1980, while saying Mass. In commemoration of the anniversary of his death, local promoter M.K. Small chose this time of year to arrange the production.

"Romero was a courageous, holy man," Ms. Small said. The playwrights have dedicated their performances to him and other slain El Salvadorans.

"Due to U.S. involvement in the war in the Gulf, the focus has been taken off the continuing struggles of the people of Latin America," Ms. Small said. "I think it's important for us to be ever mindful of the role we as citizens of the U.S. play in perpetuating the war in El Salvador."

Archbishop Romero had asked President Jimmy Carter to stop sending military assistance to his government. "Eleven years later, our government continues fuel the fire," Ms. Small said.

A Peasant of El Salvador is the longest-running play of its kind in the United States. In 1985, the production won the Denver Global Justice and Peace Award. The book form of the play has recently been translated into Spanish and will soon appear as a high school text.

St. Robert's is located at 198 Haggetts Pond Road. Tickets are available in advance at the rectory and at St. Augustine Church, which is co-sponsoring the event. Local business sponsors include the Earthfood Store and Goodwin Survey Co.

Tickets are $5 with discounts possible for those of limited income. For more information when the rectories are closed, contact Ms. Small at 475-3274.

Ragtime Ensemble recalls an earlier era in April concert

The New England Ragtime Ensemble will perform at the University of Lowell Center for the Arts Friday, April 5, at 8 p.m. The ensemble's music director, Gunther Schuller, will give a free, informal talk about ragtime music starting at 7:15.

Mr. Schuller is a conductor, composer, educator, historian and critic and a past president of the New England Conservatory.

Ragtime, an ebullient American form of music originating in the 1890s, is enjoying a resurgence of popularity, he says.

Eighteen years ago the Ragtime Ensemble, composed of 16 New England Conservatory graduates, made its debut as a professional group. The musicians have since garnered chart-topping records, a Grammy Award, tour of the Soviet Union and appearances at the White House.

They've performed at Lincoln Center, Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center and have been featured on two public television specials.

The ensemble's members, free-lance musicians, devote a part of each year to touring with the Ragtime Ensemble.

The performance and preview discussion will take place at Durgin Hall on the university's south campus at the corner of Pawtucket and Wilder streets. Tickets, priced at $13, $11 and $9, can be ordered by calling 934-4444.

Pianist performs concert in memory of Boy Scout leader

Pianist Jeanne Davis Porter will play music by Chopin, Bach and Prokofiev Sunday, March 17, in a concert in memory of Edwin Butthmann, who died last summer.

Mr. Butthmann was founder of Boy Scout Troop 2 in Lawrence and served as its scout master for 52 years and assistant for another 13 years.

Mr. Butthmann was active in the United Presbyterian Church in the field of missions and worked with and helped alcoholics.

Ms. Porter's concert is being held in Sidon Hall, to the rear of the United Presbyterian Church, 96 E. Haverhill St., Lawrence, at 3:30 p.m. A freewill offering will be taken to benefit the Edwin Butthmann Scholarship Fund.

Ms. Porter, mother of four children, is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music, completing work on her master's degree from the University of Colorado. She taught at the University of Florida before her marriage and is currently teaching in Andover.

Children's chorus 'sings for joy' Sunday

The Andover-based Treble Chorus of New England will present its spring concert Sunday, March 17, at 4 p.m. at the historic Methuen Music Hall on Route 28.

This concert will feature the premier of local composer Scott Wheeler's song Whiskers and Rhymes. This song was commissioned by the Treble Chorus of New England and the North Reading Arts Center. Phillips Academy student Cynthia Miller will be the violin accompanist.

The theme for this concert is "Singing and Laughing for Joy." Upbeat songs will be presented by the chorus.

Marie Stultz, founder and artistic director of the group, will conduct the program, which will include the public premier of her composition Song of Solomon by the Treble Chorus Chamber Ensemble.

The group will also perform the works of such diverse composers as Johannes Brahms and Aaron Copland.

Mr. Wheeler teaches at Emerson College in Boston, where he is also artistic director of Dinosaur Annex Music Ensemble. In addition to his concert music, he has written music for films, plays and dance. He studied at Amherst College, New England Conservatory and Brandeis University.

Most of the poems he has set to music in Whiskers and Rhymes come from a book of the same title by the late American author and illustrator Arnold Lobel.

"Lobel's rhymes always suggested music to me," Mr. Wheeler said. "In fact, I made settings of a couple of them as household gifts for (my daughter) Margaret and for my wife, Christen Frothingham." Ms. Frothingham is assistant for Christian education at Christ Church in Andover.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for seniors and children and are available at the door.

Peter Caruso

Peter Caruso plays squash

Peter Caruso, a sophomore at Colby College in Waterville, Maine, was a member of the 1990-91 men's squash team that finished 23rd at the National Intercollegiate Squash Racquet Association team championships held Feb. 23 and 24 at Princeton University.

Caruso, a graduate of Phillips Andover Academy, finished with a record of 14-6.

The English major is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Caruso of Andover.

Andover youngster wins skating championship

Jamie Kaplan, daughter of Alan and Leslie Kaplan of Andover, won the New England Juvenile Figure Skating championship held Feb. 22-24 and sponsored by the North Shore Skating Club in Saugus.

She placed first in compulsory figures and freestyle, putting her first overall in the elimination rounds. Jamie won the competition by earning a silver medal in figures and a gold medal in freestyle in the finals.

Thirty-nine girls competed in this division, preliminary girls, under 11 years old.

Jamie trains six days a week at the Colonial Figure Skating Club in Acton and the Skating Club of Boston where she is coached by Tom McGinnis. She is a third-grade student at Sanborn School.

AHS skiers and runners turn in outstanding performances

By Rick Harrison

Several of Andover High's top winter athletes hit the road last weekend and turned in outstanding performances, AHS receiving first-class efforts from skiers and tracksters as the winter sports season wound down with the annual State Interscholastic Alpine Ski Championships in Western Mass. (Charlmount) and the New England Interscholastic Track and Field Meet at Brown University in Providence, R.I.

Ski

On the slopes the Andover three-some of junior Amy Heseltine, freshman Debbie Shea and senior Terry Retelle qualified for this weekend's New England's at Mt. Snow, Vt. with superb individual efforts at Berkshire East.

Heseltine, placing well in the states and qualifying for the New England's for the second straight year, was fifth overall in a field of more than 100 top competitors throughout Massachusetts.

Shea was 12th and Retelle 10th in their respective divisions.

The Andover High boys, who qualified as a team by virtue of their second place finish in the North Shore League, placed 13th as a unit.

Track

Junior Jill Ippolito's outstanding individual season came to a controversial close, as the All-State and Eastern Regionals runner-up in the 60-yard (55 meters) dash qualified for the New England finals but didn't place.

Or did she?

Meet officials ruled she did not after a photo finish in the event.

Many observers felt the AHS speedster was among the top four, but the electronic timing device at the finish line was broken and the judges' naked eye decision was that she did not place in the top six.

Ippolito did, however, join junior Layne Whitley, senior Maureen Maginnis and junior Nicole Angelos on the Lady Warriors' 4x200 relay team that placed second in 1:49.3.

Andover was less than a half-second behind the winning team from Hartford, Conn.

AHS athletes named All-Stars

By Rick Harrison

A number of Andover High athletes have been named Merrimack Valley Conference All Stars for the winter season in girls' gymnastics, boys' swimming and girls' and boys' indoor track.

Gymnastics

Three underclassmen received the honors in gymnastics, juniors Tania Pierce and Kasie Kearins joined by sophomore Anne Milmo.

League champ Dracut High's State Individual champion Tammy Noel was named the league's Most Outstanding Gymnast, and she was joined in the top five by teammate Paula Cronk, Chelmsford's Emily Lueck and the Methuen tandem of Robin Beeley and Caren Cioffi.

Swimming

Three AHS swimmers earned All-Conference laurels, the honorees Matt Jennings, Matt Liberty and Brian Mayberry.

Geoff Schaake was selected to the second team, and honorable mention status in swimming was accorded to Anthony Crooks, Chris DeMartino, Sean Herlihy and Adam Robb.

Joshua Blagg of league champ Chelmsford was voted the Most Valuable Swimmer.

Track

First-team All-Conference in boys' track are junior Jason McCue (hurdles), senior Andy Carleton (sprints) and Tim Parker (middle distance).

Also chosen as MVC All-Stars from Andover are junior sprinters Jamie Damon and Jim Landry.

First-team All-Conference picks among the Lady Warriors are junior sprinters Jill Ippolito and Nicole Angelos, along with senior shot putter Leanna Mills.

Selected as MVC All-Stars are junior hurdler Holly Clark, junior middle distance runner Layne Whitley, senior high jumper Gillian Kiley and senior shot putter Ayanna Little.

Davies leads her team through championships

By Rick Harrison

Liz Davies of Andover last week sparked her Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro girls' basketball team to the Eastern Mass. Division 3 North Sectional championship, as the Lancers ousted tournament opponents Bedford (70-37), Georgetown (51-31) and Presentation of Mary Academy in Methuen (37-33).

The three victories earned NDA a berth in the State's Final Four, and they attempted to advance to the Massachusetts championship game last night when they battled South Sectional titlist Seekonk at Boston Garden.

If Ms. Davies and her teammates survived last night, they will journey to the Worcester Centrum this Saturday morning to play the Central-Western Mass. champ for the State Division 3 crown.

Last night was Davies' second game at Boston Garden in three years, the Lancers also winning the Division 3 title in 1989 before bowing to Norwell in the state semifinals.

Last week's three tournament victories hiked Notre Dame's perfect record to 20-0 this season, and the team is now

Tara Sullivan, daughter of George and Karen Sullivan of Andover, was a member of the 1990-'91 Westfield State College swimming team which finished its season with a best ever 6-3 record under ninth-year coach Dave Laing. Sullivan, a freshman art major, is a graduate of Andover High School.

Hurricane boys swim their way to second place

The Andover/North Andover YMCA Hurricane swim team boys swam to a second place overall at the Eastern Mass. District championship in Brockton. Twenty-seven teams participated.

The E boys were third in their age group. The A medley relay team of Brad Johnson, Bryan Hilliard, Ross Clay and Nate Vantzell came in fourth. The B medley relay team of Stephen Graham, Jim Russo, Adam Kovacs and Mitchel Galizia came in 12th. Johnson was fourth in the 100-yard individual medley, fourth in the 50-yard free and 10th in the 25-yard back. Clay was fifth in the 25-yard breast and sixth in the 100-yard I.M. Vantzell was ninth in the 25-yard back and 11th in the 25-yard fly. Hilliard was eighth in the 25-yard breast. The A free relay team of Johnson, Clay, Russo and Vantzell were third.

The D boys came in second in their age group. The medley relay team of Tim Witman, Andy Shessler, Skip Bryan and Joey Sipos were third. Bryan was second in the 50-yard fly and 100-yard free and 10th in the 100-yard I.M. Sipos was fourth in the 50-yard back and 100-yard free and fifth in the 50-yard free. Shessler was fourth in the 50-yard breast. Witman was fifth in the 100-yard I.M., sixth in the 50-yard back and seventh in the 50-yard fly. Mark Moskal was eighth in the 50-yard free and 11th in the 100-yard free. Robbie Bolway was ninth in the 100-yard free and Scott Shainker was 12th. The free relay team of Witman, Bryan, Sipos and Moskal was second.

The C boys came in second in their age group. Eric Shessler, Anthony Sakakeeny, 54-5 overall since Liz Davies took over the starting job at center.

Ms. Davies' three-game Eastern Mass. Tournament totals were 52 points (17.3 average), 43 rebounds, 27 steals and five blocked shots.

Quarterfinal romp

The quarterfinal round romp over Bedford took two days to complete, with play suspended in the opening minutes of the second half when the Notre Dame court became slippery because of condensation problems.

NDA had a huge 46-14 lead at the time, Davies' 23 points accounting for half the team's total.

When play resumed at the Tyngsboro High gym the following night, Lancers' Coach Mike O'Brien used his starters only briefly and the two teams traded baskets for the final 14 minutes.

Davies shared game-high scoring honors with talented 6'3" Bedford senior pivotperson Kim Mello, both pouring in 25 points. Liz added 20 rebounds and 10 steals.

"We just tried to have Liz and the other girls put a lot of pressure on their big girl inside," said Coach O'Brien after the game. "We made her (Mello) work hard for her points."

Prior to the 51-31 semifinal triumph over Georgetown, O'Brien noted that "they're quick but they can't match up with us sizewise."

"The question is will they be able to stop Davies. I don't think they can, and if they try to double-team her we'll beat them with our outside shooting which has improved 100 percent since the start of the year."

The Royals were unable to neutralize the Andover resident, who led a balanced Lancers' attack with a game-high 16 points.

Teammate Nikki Altobello added 13, Julie Hunt nine, and NDA basically had it won by halftime with a commanding 28-11 lead.

The EMass. final against PMA-Methuen was a test of strength and patience, one which Davies and NDA passed with flying colors.

Both teams played aggressive, smothering, ball-hawking defense, with PMA center Karen Burke surprising Davies and Coach O'Brien with her mobility.

"She was more active and went to the basket more than she had when I scouted them against Tyngsboro," noted O'Brien. "They were trying to deny Liz the ball, and felt by cutting her out of our offense it would negate our advantage."

"But we felt if Liz could play her (Burke) to a standoff, our other four girls were more talented than theirs."

Burke and Davies did finish with almost identical point totals, but the task of defending the NDA center fell on the shoulders of PMA forward Sonia Cherubin after Burke picked up three quick fouls and sat out the final seven minutes of the first half.

PMA led by as many as four points (10-6) in the first half, which was tied four times including 16-16 at the buzzer.

No stopping NDA

"We were a little uptight and nervous at first," said Ms. Davies after the game, as she accepted hugs, kisses and handshakes at a court-side celebration. "But once we broke it open in the second half, there was no stopping us."

"We knew that Burke and (point guard) Jen Bruno were the keys to their team, and if we held them down we'd win."

"No. 50 (Burke) was good, but she got in early foul trouble which hurt them," continued Davies. "They played me tough, and it took some time for us to realize we couldn't try to force the ball inside. Tough defense is part of the game, and it's my job to stay cool."

"The important thing is we stuck together as a team, and as long as we won its doesn't matter to me how many points I score."

"We knew we had to keep our composure and not play street basketball," added sophomore guard Stacey Seidewand. "We kept throwing the ball away trying to get it in to Liz, but once we started moving it around we settled down."

Notre Dame finally broke the game open with an 11-2 run midway through the second half, turning a 22-21 barnburner into a seemingly-safe 33-23 game.

Davies helped that winning surge with a layup and free throw.

But the PMA Panthers clawed back in the final four minutes, putting together a 10-2 run of their own to make it 35-33 with 58 seconds left.

Free throws by Julie Hunt (0:44) and Nikki Altobello (0:04), and some rugged defense, enabled NDA to hold on for the victory.

"We lost to a great team," said Coach Steve Stankus of No. 2 seed PMA (21-2 record). "They had too much size, with Liz Davies, and quickness for us. We felt Karen Burke would have to do more because she was playing against Davies. I think she was inspired because the competition was so strong."

Davies finished with 11 points, hitting 4-of-7 from the floor and 3-of-4 at the free throw line.

Michelle DiStefano is hot in Huskies' net

Soon Andy Moog may have to worry about losing his starting status to a goalie other than Reggie Lemelin or Matt DelGuidice. He could lose it to the niece of Joe Bertagna, the Bruins' goaltender coach.

Moog can relax for now, however, since his challenger, Andover native Michelle DiStefano, will not graduate from Northeastern until 1995. DiStefano just wrapped up her rookie season in goal for the women's ice hockey team.

Earning her first varsity letter, this freshman played backup goalie to senior Sue Guay, but number 30 had an incredible season. When DiStefano tended net, the Huskies went 8-1 and 4-0 in the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Northeastern finished second in the ECAC, having lost to the University of New Hampshire 6-1 in the tournament final on March 3. Winning 20 and losing seven this year, the Huskies won their eighth straight Women's Beanpot title and also took home the Providence Invitational Tournament trophy.

With a 75 percent underclassmen team, head coach Don MacLeod will lose only one player to graduation next year: starting goalie Guay. DiStefano will most likely fill Andover High School placed eight swimmers on the Merrimack Valley Conference All Star Team.

Juniors Matt Jennings and Brian Mavberry and sophomore Matt Liberty were named to the first team. All three were sectional and state qualifiers with Liberty finishing fourth in the 500 yard freestyle and ninth in the 200-yard individual medley at states.

Senior Geoff Schaaque, also a sectional and state qualifier, placed on the second team.

Honorable mention was awarded to senior Anthony Crooks, a sectional and state diving qualifier, and to

Junior Chris DeMartino, senior co-captain Sean Herlihy

Pirates swim into fifth place

The Merrimack Valley Pirates swim team finished fifth in a field of 30 teams, at the New England Senior championships held March 8-10 at Harvard University.

The Pirates, with a team of 21 senior qualifiers, now have five swimmers who have exceeded cut times for the National Junior Olympics-East championships on March 26-30. Joshua Blagg, Garrett Burke, Todd Lawrence, Kurt Leslie and Jeffrey Wicklund will travel to Buffalo, N.Y., for the event.

Diana Liberty, Kevin Riley and Melissa Schofield have been selected to participate in the United States Swimming Eastern Zone championship, also in Buffalo, April 4-6.

Scoring on the championship level is done through 16th place and the Pirates amassed more than 450 points for their fifth-place finish.

Kurt Leslie struck gold in the 50-yard freestyle and placed second in the 100 free (to backstroke world record holder David Berkoff) as he achieved JO cuts in both events. Leslie also was fifth in the 100-yard butterfly.

Josh Blagg placed seventh in the men's overall high point standing, with finishes of fourth in the 200-yard breaststroke, fifth in the 200- and 400-yard individual medleys, eighth in the 100-yard breaststroke and 10th in the 100-yard backstroke. His 200 I.M. time qualified him for the JO championship.

Matt Liberty scored points with a seventh in the 200-yard butterfly, ninth in the 1650-yard freestyle, 11th in the 1000 free, 13th in the 100-yard I.M. and 16th in the 500 free.

Jeff Wicklund was fifth in the 200-yard freestyle and 10th in the 100 free, 200 I.M. and 200-yard breaststroke.

Garrett Burke placed 11th in the 100 back, 14th in the 200 back and 15th in the 50- and 1000-yard freestyle events.

Diana Liberty finished 11th in the 1650 free and 16th in the 500- and 1000-yard freestyle and, at 13, was the youngest Pirate competitor in the meet.

Jen Lamontagne scored 12th in the 100-yard freestyle and 16th in the 200 free.

Kristen Perrault was 13th in the 1000 free and 11th in the 1650-yard event.

Margaret Reilly placed 13th in the 50 free and 15th in the 100-yard freestyle.

Michelle DiStefano

the bill as the Huskies' top netminder.

"DiStefano had a fantastic season," says Coach MacLeod, "She was only a freshman, but she played some incredible games. I also think she learned a lot playing behind Sue (Guay)."

DiStefano did play some incredible games this year. She earned her only conference shutout on Jan. 23; Northeastern destroyed Brown 9-0 as DiStefano made 24 saves.

Having made 141 saves this year, DiStefano recorded a .940 save percentage for the year. She allowed only nine goals and earned a 1.08 goals against average.

DiStefano, who graduated from Andover High in 1990, was the first girl goalie in the school's history to tend net for a win. While at Andover, she lettered in hockey along with soccer and softball, captaining the softball team in her senior year.

DiStefano majors in criminal justice and plans to graduate in 1995.

18-year-old indicted, charged with abandoning hours-old infant

Dawn Bernard, 18, of 19 Duffon Road, was indicted Tuesday by an Essex County Grand Jury, and charged with abandonment of an infant. The Grand Jury heard testimony over a period of five weeks before returning its indictment.

The indictment stems from the discovery of her baby girl in a car on the afternoon of Dec. 26, 1990, by Andover police officers Donald Pattullo, David Grant and Kevin Burke. The infant was about four hours old when the officers found her.

The baby, whose body temperature had dropped to 84 degrees, was taken to Lawrence General Hospital and treated for hypothermia. She has since been placed in the custody of a temporary guardian.

Assistant District Attorney Howard J. Whitehead said he anticipates Ms. Bernard will be arraigned in Salem Superior Court sometime during the next two weeks. The maximum sentence she could receive is two and a half years in a house of correction, according to Steve O'Connell, spokesman for the district attorney's office.

Barcelos hires Channell

By Don Staruk

Channell Building Co., of Haverhill, has been hired to complete the redevelopment of the former Barcelos grocery store building on Main Street, Carlos Barcelos said this week.

"Yes. He's going to do the work," Mr. Barcelos said Tuesday. "I feel very upbeat and very confident that the whole project is going to go on and it's going to be a very classy building."

Channell is the former Andover company that renovated the Musgrove and Barnard buildings and turned the old Punchard High School, on Bartlett Street, into the new town offices. The company moved to Haverhill three or four years ago. It is owned by Bob Webster of North Andover.

"A Quality contractor. A classy guy. He'll do a great job," Mr. Barcelos said of Mr. Webster.

Bill Dalton, former selectman, Planning Board member and the owner of The Andover Bookstore, used to work with Mr. Webster and was glad to see Channell get the Barcelos job.

"He's been in business around here for 20-25 years. Very good company," Mr. Dalton said.

Mr. Barcelos and his brother, Jose, are redeveloping the Main Street building with expanded retail space on the first floor and added office space on the second floor overlooking Main street.

The first floor is going to be leased by CVS Pharmacy, which will move from across Chestnut Street, and Shawmut Bank, which will occupy the corner of the building near Main and Chestnut streets, according to Mr. Barcelos.

The second floor leases have not all been firmed up yet, he said.

Double D Contractors, of Westminster, had been on and off the job since last fall and is now off the job for good, according to Mr. Barcelos. Double D had not been completing the work according to schedule, he said.

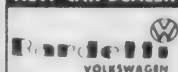

With Channell on the job, Mr. Barcelos and Mr. Webster are looking for the construction to be completed in a matter of months.

"I think we're talking about summer-time," Mr. Barcelos said.

Kevin Casey under giant lobster (hand carved by Hamilton artist Penny Bernard) displayed over lobster tank Langford's Seafoods, Inc.

Langford's Seafoods, Inc. continues to offer their famous English-style fish and chips for takeout on Fridays, in addition to fried scallops, clams, onion rings, clam and fish chowder and baked fish with rice pilaf for the health conscious. Frozen entrees include scrod (with or without cheese), scallops, stuffed shrimp and lobster pie. These entrees are handy to keep in the freezer for a quick dinner or unexpected company.

Langford's has the largest fish processing plant in the Merrimack Valley. Owners Joseph and Sandra Lasonde are dedicated to selling the freshest seafood possible in this immaculate facility.

There is an extensive variety of seafood available at all times. Live lobsters, from chick to large select, are on display in their large tanks. Lobsters are Langford's specialty. They will pack them for shipment throughout the United States.

Langford's many regular customers like to share their recipes with one another. A creative new way to serve fish, especially popular with the children is Josie's Pizza Style Haddock or Scrod. Spray a light coat of Pam on bottom of pan. Lay fish in pan. Pour favorite tomato sauce over fish. Top with a sprinkle of oregano, black pepper, parsley, fresh garlic or garlic powder to taste and thin onion slices. Drizzle some olive oil on top. You can also sprinkle Parmesan, Romano or mozzarella cheese on top. Bake one pound haddock or scrod for 20 minutes at 400 degrees.

Langford's parking lot offers ample parking for their customers' convenience. They are located at 229 South Union St., Lawrence. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 7 to 5, Friday 7 to 7 and Saturday, 8 to 4. Phone: (508) 682-3791.

Everett man injured in car crash

An Everett man was seriously injured when his car went off Dascomb Road and hit a tree head on early Tuesday evening.

Charles Stefanilo Jr.'s 1988 Oldsmobile Toronado crossed the Interstate 93 overpass when he took a sharp left across the oncoming lane, drove through a stockade fence and hit a tree at 125 Dascomb Road.

Andover Patrolman Lawrence Hickman said he was on his way to work and was following right behind Mr. Stefanilo when the accident occurred about 5:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Patrolman Hickman said he approached the car and found Mr. Stefanilo, 35, unconscious and not breathing, having swallowed his tongue. He said he pulled Mr. Stefanilo from the smoking car and cleared his air passage.

Mr. Stefanilo first was treated at Lawrence General Hospital for multiple injuries and was then transferred to Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He was in intensive care Wednesday morning.

Frishman pushes Poore

tee warrants to authorize school department payments, what specific budget cuts she'd make since she does not approve of a Proposition 2 1/2 override, why she misses so many meetings and why her name is listed on the town's delinquent tax list.

The Townsmen asked Mrs. Poore these questions earlier this week. She declined to comment, other than to say her home phone number is available through the office of the superintendent of schools, her name is incorrectly listed as the owner of the property for which taxes are overdue and if Mr. Frishman would like answers to any further questions he should ask her at tonight's forum.

"Mr. Frishman says he represents the concerns of other people. If that's the case why hasn't he brought them up before? We've already had three forums," said Ms. Poore.

Ms. Poore called the accusations "personal attacks" and said in her previous six years on the School Committee "this type of campaigning is unprecedented."

"I have not initiated conversation on these topics," said Mr. Frishman.

"They are increasing subjects of public discussion. People bring them (questions) to me and I don't have any of the answers to them," he said.

Mr. Frishman said he hopes the format of tonight's forum will allow enough time for candidates to question one another so he can get answers to his questions.

Another question that may come up at tonight's forum for Ms. Poore is one that was raised at last Thursday afternoon's candidates' debate sponsored by the Andover Education Association. Kerry Costello, a special needs teacher at West Middle School, asked Ms. Poore why she didn't sign the teachers' contract that was negotiated with the School Committee in March of 1990.

Ms. Costello contends many teachers believe Ms. Poore neither thinks they deserved the raise they negotiated, nor does she support the teachers because she declined to sign the contract last March.

Ms. Poore said Ms. Costello's interpretation of the absence of her signature is false. She said she supports the teachers and believes they have earned the raise.

"I didn't sign the contract because I objected to the negotiation tactics used by some of my fellow School Committee members and the representative from the Massachusetts Teachers Association," Ms. Poore said.

Tonight's forum is sponsored by the Andover League of Women Voters and will feature candidates for School Committee, Board of Selectmen, Greater Lawrence Technical School Board.
